

Building Community Support For Your Facility Improvements

We will focus on the bond planning timeline, facility optimization, and community feedback and support throughout the process. We will utilize case studies of recent successful bond programs with varying circumstances and scenarios to illustrate the process with real world examples.

Learning outcomes for attendees

- How to lead a successful bond program
- Best practices for community outreach and engagement during the bond planning and campaign phases
- How to overcome the challenges of aging facilities, changing enrollment, and emerging programs.

About The Presenters

STEPANIE HACHEY P.E.

Beginning her career at Barton Malow as an Intern, Stephanie has spent her entire career building school facilities across Michigan. She's motivated by playing an integral role in shaping the future of learning spaces and contributing to the community where she lives, works, and plays. Very involved from the initial planning phases through when the first students walk in the door, Stephanie provides management and direction to multiple teams and projects and is a primary member of Barton Malow's Education Group leadership team. Stephanie holds a Master of Science in Civil Engineering from Wayne State University and a Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Michigan- Dearborn. Stephanie also has her Professional Engineer license.

DARYL DOMBROW

Daryl has over 20 years of experience managing overall project performance through qualified personnel and finances/funding. He provides administrative direction to Project Managers and coaches team members and his scheduling expertise ensures material delivery dates meet construction requirements and applies lessons from previous projects to provide clients with a well-constructed and cost-effective facility. A key member of Barton Malow's Education Group leadership team, Daryl holds a Bachelor of Arts in Public Affairs with a Minor in Economics from Wayne State University.

JEFF ATKINS, Associate AIA, LEED AP

Jeff works with project teams to conceptualize educational goals and determine the construction strategies that best meet those unique goals. With over 25 years of construction experience, Jeff has a diverse background ranging from environmental, building, and structures systems, to computer-aided design and computer information systems. Jeff is a member of Barton Malow's Education Group leadership team and holds a Bachelor of Science in Architecture from Lawrence Tech University. He also is a licensed builder, an Associate Member of the American Institute of Architects, and holds LEED accreditation.

LARRY BUKOSWKI

Larry has more than 17 years of experience supporting the ever-changing needs of school facilities. He brings a depth of knowledge to districts, helping them strategically work through their needs to help plan Bond budgets and keep their goals on track. He prioritizes creating the best budget for an efficient school that will hold up for years to come and be flexible enough for any change in the future. Larry is a member of Barton Malow's Education Group leadership team and holds a Master of Business Administration and a Bachelor of Science in Construction Management from Lawrence Tech University. Larry also holds a Graduate Certificate in Project Management and is LEED Accredited.

KELSEY BIRKMEIER

Kelsey serves as Banach, Banach & Cassidy's Executive Vice-President. She manages client databases, designs and monitors survey research, and conducts focus panel projects. She leads BB&C's award-winning graphics and design program and specializes in campaign-related social media applications, online surveys, and strategy development.

Kelsey has elementary school and collegiate-level teaching experience, strategic counsel experience in K-12 and post-secondary education, and extensive management experience in the public health field. She holds Bachelor's and Master's Degrees. Kelsey joined BB&C in 2014.
